

Andrea Tull, PhD

Andrea Tull, PhD has 20 years' experience in performance management in the healthcare and social service industries. She currently serves as Senior Director for Quality Performance Management in the Lawrence Center for Quality and Safety at Massachusetts General Hospital. Andrea leads a broad portfolio of quality and safety evaluation and operational activities, including regulatory quality reporting, patient experience, safety reporting, institutional capacity and health equity. She has a PhD in Gerontology from the University of Massachusetts and continues to volunteer in the elder services field through serving on the boards of directors for senior living communities in the greater Boston area.